

UT NEWS

www.utnews.utoledo.edu

Nov. 15, 2004

Volume 5, Issue 13

Looking back at Toledo
page 3

Authors! Authors!
page 4

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, UT News will not be published Nov. 22. The next issue will be available Nov. 29. Check www.utnews.utoledo.edu for breaking news.

Center stage

Kirby Wahl, UT assistant professor of theatre, took to the stage last week for a special performance of "Richard III" for high school students. Shown at left, Wahl schemed as Richard, the Duke of Gloucester. Also featured in the Shakespearean play are Sue Ott Rowlands, UT professor and chair of theatre and film, as Queen Margaret, seen here warning the Duke of Buckingham, played by community actor Peter Mackey, of Richard's evil plot. Performances continue this week Wednesday through Sunday, Nov. 17-21. Shows begin at 7:30 p.m. except for Sunday when curtain time is 2 p.m. Tickets are $12, $10 and $8. For tickets, call the box office at Ext. 2375 or go to www.stagetix.com.

Photos by Bill Hartough

President hosts breakfast for top campaign contributors

By Jon Strunk

As a way of saying thank you for supporting The University of Toledo's Community Charitable Campaign 2004, those donating $72 or more are invited to a breakfast with President Dan Johnson on Friday, Nov. 19, at 8:30 a.m. in Student Union Room 2582.

"This is a way to say a special thank you to those who were able to go above and beyond the call of duty in supporting this year's campaign," said Dr. Clint Longenecker, Stranahan Distinguished Professor of Management and a campaign co-chair. "This University has always been generous, and this year has been no different. We really work with a lot of great people at this institution!"

At the breakfast, prizes, all of which have been donated by University departments and offices as well as community businesses, will be given away in a

continued on page 2

President's holiday reception is Dec. 9

President Dan Johnson's fourth annual holiday reception will take place Thursday, Dec. 9, from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Student Union Auditorium.

"We extended the time for the party this year because we wanted to be more inclusive to employees who work earlier shifts," said Deb Driscoll, senior events coordinator for the President's Office.

Faculty and staff are invited to celebrate the season with a festive buffet, holiday spirits and music.

"We hope everyone will come together to celebrate what has become a much anticipated UT family tradition. We do have a few surprises planned for this year's festivity," Driscoll said.

Join the president and his wife, Elaine Johnson, to toast the holiday season at 4 p.m.

The deadline to RSVP for the holiday reception is Wednesday, Dec. 1.

To RSVP, contact Driscoll at Ext. 3333 or e-mail Debra.Driscoll@utoledo.edu.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS

17th Annual Service Recognition Awards

Monday, Dec. 6
1 p.m.

Student Union Auditorium

Nov. 15, 2004

Vice provost open forums Nov. 15-18

By Deanna Lytle

Candidates for the position of vice provost for academic programs and policies will be interviewing this week, and UT faculty, staff and students have opportunities to meet and question the four applicants.

The provost for academic programs and policies provides leadership and coordination in the areas of academic policy and compliance. The Honors Program, the Student Success Center, the Study Abroad Program, Project EXCEL and the Registrar's Office report to the vice provost. Among the duties of the position are providing leadership for the development of undergraduate programs and curricula, planning commencement ceremonies, communicating with students about academic concerns and disputes, and coordinating faculty sabbaticals and tenure-promotions for the Office of Academic Affairs.

The open forums will be held from 2:20 to 3:10 p.m. in Student Union Room 2591. The days and candidates are:

- Monday, Nov. 15 — Dr. Carol Bresnahan, professor of history;
- Tuesday, Nov. 16 — Dr. Marietta Morrissey, associate dean for the social sciences in the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of sociology, anthropology and social work;
- Wednesday, Nov. 17 — Dr. Bernie Bopp, director of the Center for Teaching and Learning and professor of astronomy;
- Thursday, Nov. 18 — Dr. Constantine Theodosiou, associate dean for natural sciences and mathematics in the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of physics.

For more information, contact Jerome Sullivan, dean of the College of Health and Human Services and search committee chair, at Ext. 5451.

Campaign breakfast continued from page 1

drawing for all those in attendance. There also will be a special drawing for those who are unable to attend this event.

Some of the prizes are:

- Five one-month reserved parking spaces donated by Finance, Technology and Operations;
- Lunch for two at Libbey Hall courtesy of the President's Office;
- A hand-blown glass ornament donated by artist Larry Mack;
- A framed photograph donated by artist

Robert Hasenfratz;

- A framed photograph display featuring four seasons at UT by Jackie Way, executive secretary 2 in Athletics;
- Airline tickets courtesy of Finance, Technology and Operations; and
- A jacket donated by the President's Office.

To RSVP for the breakfast, contact Penny Thiessen at Ext. 2291 or Penny.Thiessen@utoledo.edu by Tuesday, Nov. 16. Due to space limitations, only the first 200 reservations can be guaranteed a space.

Campaign donors win prizes

As part of The University of Toledo's 2004 Community Charitable Campaign, weekly random drawings have taken place to select prizewinners from those who donated $48 or more.

Last week's winners were:

- Nancy Burhans, associate director of recreation facilities in the Student Recreation Center — a set of four mugs donated by the College of Arts and Sciences;
- Sandy Chick, secretary 2 in the College of Education — mug filled with candy donated by University College;
- Carol Davis, account clerk in the Print Shop — a 100th anniversary tote bag donated by the College of Pharmacy;
- Dr. Timothy Fisher, associate professor of earth, ecological and environmental sciences — set of four passes to the Student Recreation Center donated by the center;
- Deb Gossert, secretary in the social work department — a copy of Metropolitan Universities donated by the President's Office;

- Brenda Holderman, assistant bursar in the Bursar's Office — a T-shirt courtesy of the College of Business Administration;
- Lynda Meyer, library associate in Carlson Library — an umbrella donated by the College of Health and Human Services; and
- Tamara Phares, bioengineering laboratory coordinator in the College of Engineering — an umbrella courtesy of the College of Health and Human Services.

Prizes may be claimed in the College of Education Office, located in Gillham Hall Room 4023. Anything not claimed before the campaign's finale breakfast on Nov. 19 will be placed in the pool of prizes for that event.

For more information, call Roxanne Ring, chair of the Community Charitable Campaign Prize Committee and director of alumni and college relations in the College of Education, at Ext. 5326.

Washington, D.C., isn't just for political junkies anymore

Nov. 30 deadline to apply for internships through Washington Center

By Jon Strunk

With one of the longest, most contentious, and emotionally draining election campaigns still fresh in the minds of many, an internship in Washington, D.C., may not initially appeal to some. But contrary to conventional wisdom, many of the UT students who have spent semesters interning in this Mecca of political combat don't work in political offices.

Increasingly, the vehicle by which UT students arrive in the nation's capitol is marked with the logo of the Washington Center, a nonprofit internship placement agency. Through the center, students get internships in communication, environment, business, nonprofit — and yes, political — organizations, just to name a few.

"I think the most important impact [of the Washington Center] is on the sense of self-confidence these students develop in themselves, both professionally and personally," said Dr. Linda Smith, a lecturer in the Honors Program and UT's center liaison. "It really is a growth experience for a lot of students."

Entering its 30th year, the Washington Center offers the 400 to 500 students who attend each semester myriad opportunities to hear from prominent and influential players in Washington and countless networking opportunities in addition to the internship, according to Joe Johnston, senior vice president for institutional relations.

Beth Kennedy, a senior in the College of Business Administration who is interning for Merrill Lynch, cited networking as one of the center's biggest advantages.

"[The Washington Center] helped me network and I've developed a lot of connections," Kennedy said. "I'm not sure if I'd stay with Merrill Lynch, but I definitely want to get a job in D.C. once my internship is done."

But according to Johnston, Kennedy is the exception rather than the rule. Fewer than 20 percent of the center's alumni return to Washington, D.C., to work, he said. And that's not a bad thing.

"We don't want to be a brain-drain factor. Most [alumni] become civically engaged in their hometowns, with the addition of the knowledge they gained from Washington, D.C., and their D.C. connections," Johnston said.

Colette Baldwin entered the mass communications program because she wanted to work in video production. Already possessing experience from UT's "Rocket Report" broadcast, the sophomore majoring in communication got an internship at Double R Productions, a small production company that deals quite a bit with generating public service announcements.

"We're pretty much doing a little bit of everything," Baldwin replied when asked about her internship.

Smith said some of the best experiences students have had come from those interning in smaller organizations.

"Because the office is small, interns often end up doing more challenging and diverse work because these organizations don't have the luxury of delegating menial work."

But for those who still manage not to cringe at the sound of political banter, such as Dan Rock, an intern in Michigan Sen. Carl Levin's office, the Washington Center is ideal. Rock, a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, conducts legislative research, answers constituent mail and gives tours of the capitol. Also an example of the center's desire to give students the best experience they can, Rock was moved from a position he found he didn't enjoy into Levin's office.

"Most students say they've been treated like professionals, and it's exciting for them when they feel like they are contributing to their office," Smith said.

The deadline to apply for an internship in Washington, D.C., for spring semester is Tuesday, Nov. 30. For details, contact Smith at Ext. 6039.

Correction

In a story about the African-American Women in the USA class in last week's paper, it was implied that there are no other UT courses offered on current issues and challenges faced by African Americans. The Africana Studies Program, established in 1996, offers more than 30 classes on a variety of African-American experiences, including African-American Issues, Foundations of Black Intellectual History, Politics in Africa, and Cyberspace and the Black Experience. Every semester at least three sections of Introduction to Africana Studies are taught. UT News apologizes for the oversight.

Researcher analyzes Thanksgiving in 'Buffy' episode

By Deanna Lytle

The TV show "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" may not be the first thing you think of during Thanksgiving, but Dr. Madeline Muntersbjorn believes the episode "Pangs" brings to light important issues about the holiday.

Muntersbjorn, associate professor of philosophy, is a scholar of the television show. She, as well as Tammy Kinsey, assistant professor of film, gave a presentation at the Slayage conference last May, which brought together more than 100 speakers from around the world to discuss the TV show. The Thanksgiving episode and its significance are topics of a paper Muntersbjorn is writing and researching.

"Pangs" begins with four different viewpoints on the holiday. "There is an anthropological professor speaking at an opening of an institute who's talking about the fabulous melting pot of society," Muntersbjorn recalled. "The character Willow, who represents the intellectual perspective, believes it's a sham," overlooking the following genocide of the native people. Buffy, however, wants to celebrate the holiday to re-live her own memories, referring to it as a "sham with yams." Finally, the demon Anya considers the holiday a ritual sacrifice, as people are killing an animal in order to commemorate something.

Muntersbjorn approaches the issue of Thanksgiving as a combination of these viewpoints, namely "once you see what's been swept under the table, can you still sit down and have a nice meal?" The truth is the first Thanksgiving wasn't as nice as people believe. According to the scholar Chuck Larsen in "Teaching about Thanksgiving" (<http://www.2020tech.com/thanks/>

Author to sign book Nov. 20

Barbara Floyd will discuss and sign copies of her new book, Toledo in the 19th Century, on Saturday, Nov. 20, at 1 p.m. at Thackeray's Books.

The book takes a pictorial look at Toledo's legacy as a working-class town with more than 200 vintage photographs, most of which are from the Ward M. Canaday Center for Special Collections. Floyd is the director of the center and university archivist.

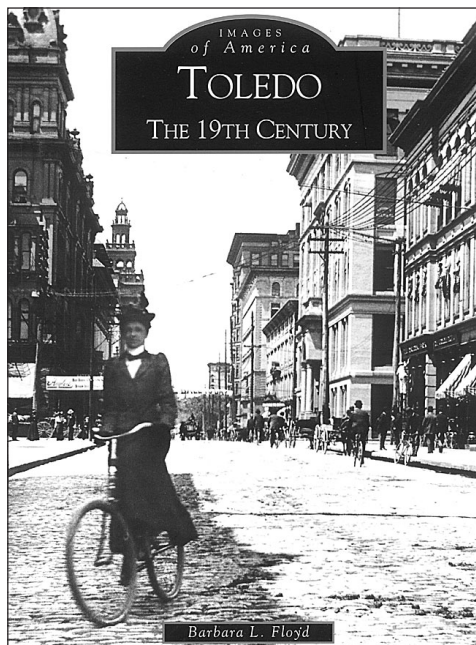

Toledo in the 19th Century is part of the Images of America series issued by Arcadia Publishing. The book is one of 188 works included in the UT Authors and Artists Exhibit, which opens Thursday, Nov. 18. (See page 4 for more on the exhibit.)

For more information, call Thackeray's Books at 419.537.9259.

temp.html), the Pilgrims invited the Wampanoag people to the meal to negotiate a treaty to secure the lands for the Pilgrims. In addition, the Wampanoags brought most of the food for the first Thanksgiving, and many believe the settlers would not have survived without their help. The Pilgrims were not always so gracious for their assistance, as a Thanksgiving sermon delivered in 1623 thanked God for the smallpox outbreaks among the Native Americans near Plymouth. Today, many Native Americans have re-appropriated the holiday as the National Day of Mourning.

Muntersbjorn believes that Thanksgiving is an example of how people "willfully ignore piles of information" in order to stick with what they believe. "People do not like to be told that they are wrong," she said. "There is a false belief that your origin determines your identity — but history doesn't determine who you are." Instead of trying to sugarcoat Thanksgiving history, Muntersbjorn recommends that people accept the past but not let it determine the type of people they are. She also advises parents to emphasize the generosity of the native peoples to their young children, adding genocidal information when they are more mature. She also thinks that the world situation today is reminiscent of the Pilgrims' imposition of beliefs on the Wampanoags. "We can't sit back and say we're better now because we still feel we know what's in everyone's interest."

In the end, Buffy and her friends are able to work out their differences and sit down to a nice meal. Muntersbjorn believes you can celebrate Thanksgiving in light of history, "but you can't forget," she said.

MLK Scholarship deadline Nov. 23

By Shannon Coon

Applications for the Martin Luther King Jr. Scholarship are being accepted through Tuesday, Nov. 23.

The scholarship is open to full- or part-time undergraduate students who are U.S. citizens. Applicants must have completed 30 semester hours and have a Free Application for Federal Student Aid on file in the Student Financial Aid Office by Nov. 23.

Recipient selection will be based on grade point average, civic and community service, extracurricular activities, professional goals, financial need, and an essay explaining what the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. means to the applicant.

Applications are available at the Student Financial Aid Scholarship Office in Rocket Hall Room 1200 or online at www.financialaid.utoledo/general_scholarships.html.

For more information, contact Financial Aid at Ext. 8700 or the Multicultural Student Center at Ext. 2261.

Calendar continued from page 4

Tuesday, Nov. 23

Football

UT vs. Bowling Green. Glass Bowl Stadium. 7 p.m. $29 for reserved seating; $17 for general admission; $14.50 for children 12 and younger; half off for UT faculty and staff; free for UT students with I.D. Game to be televised on ESPN2. Info: 419.530.4653.

Wednesday, Nov. 24

No Classes

Health Care, Flexible Spending Account Open Enrollment Ends

Completed forms must be submitted to Human Resources by 5 p.m. Info: 419.530.1470.

Thursday, Nov. 25

Thanksgiving Break — University Closed

Friday, Nov. 26

Thanksgiving Break — University Closed

Planetarium Program

"Holiday Lights." Ritter Planetarium. 7:30 p.m. Observing at Brooks Observatory follows program, weather permitting. $4 for adults; $3 for seniors and children ages 4-12; free for children 3 and younger. Info: 419.530.4037.

Saturday, Nov. 27

Planetarium Program

"Santa's Secret Star." Ritter Planetarium. 1 p.m. $4 for adults; $3 for seniors and children ages 4-12; free for children 3 and younger. Info: 419.530.4037.

Sunday, Nov. 28

Artists' Reception and Awards Ceremony

High school students with artwork in the exhibit "Focus" will receive awards. Center for the Visual Arts Gallery. Noon-2 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.8300.

Monday, Nov. 29

HIV Testing

Free and anonymous testing. Walk-ins welcome. Student Medical Center. 1-4 p.m. Info: 419.530.3464.

Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship Competition Application Deadline

Applications must be submitted by 5 p.m. to Sullivan Hall Room 103. Info: 419.530.6030.

Faculty and Guest Artist Recital

Featuring Dr. Michael Waldrop, UT assistant professor of music, percussion, and Ivana Cojbasic, piano. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

Tuesday, Nov. 30

Bookstore Holiday Gala

Faculty and staff will receive 20 percent off purchases, free gift-wrapping and refreshments. 9 a.m.-7 p.m. at the Student Union Bookstore and 9 a.m.-6 p.m. at the Scott Park Bookstore. Info: 419.530.2516.

Faculty Senate Meeting

Student Union Room 2582. 3 p.m. Info: 419.530.2112.

UT Jazz Ensemble

Directed by Gunnar Mossblad, UT associate professor of music. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

In accordance with The University of Toledo's mission, which identifies freedom of expression as one of the University's guiding principles, UT News provides a forum for the exchange of opinions and ideas. The views expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of UT News or The University of Toledo.

UT News is published for faculty and staff by the Marketing and Communications Office weekly during the academic year and periodically during the summer. Copies are mailed to employees and placed in newsstands on the Bancroft, Scott Park, Toledo Museum of Art and SeaGate campuses. UT News strives to present accurate, fair and timely communication of interest to employees. Story ideas and comments from the UT community are welcome. Send information by campus mail to #949, Marketing and Communications, Vicki Kroll. E-mail: vicki.kroll@utoledo.edu. Fax: 419.530.4618. Phone: 419.530.2248. Mailing address: Marketing and Communications, The University of Toledo, Toledo, OH 43606-3390.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT FOR MARKETING AND COMMUNICATIONS: Jeanne Hartig
DIRECTOR OF UNIVERSITY COMMUNICATIONS: Tobin J. Klinger
EDITOR: Vicki L. Kroll

PHOTOGRAPHER: Bill Hartough

CONTRIBUTING WRITERS: Shannon Coon, Deanna Lytle, Megan Mangano, Jon Strunk

EDITORIAL ASSISTANTS: Laurie Flowers, Gail Simpson

CALENDAR COORDINATOR: Megan Mangano

DISTRIBUTION ASSISTANT: Tye Stephens

Read University news at www.utnews.utoledo.edu.

The University of Toledo is committed to a policy of equal opportunity in education, employment, membership and contracts, and no differentiation will be made based on race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, veteran status or the presence of a disability. The University will take affirmative action as required by federal or state law.

UT Authors and Artists Exhibit opens Nov. 18

By Deanna Lytle

UT faculty and staff members do great work inside the classroom, but those in the campus community may not get to see the conference papers, scholarly books, articles and artistic pieces they create outside of class time. But the curtain will be thrown back to reveal these masterpieces during the 2004 University of Toledo Authors and Artists Exhibit.

The show runs from Thursday, Nov. 18, through Thursday, Dec. 30, in the Ward M. Canaday Center on the fifth floor of Carlson Library. Works by the art department's faculty members will be in the gallery area outside of the center.

The exhibit contains 188 pieces as well as 11 artistic works, according to Suhasini Kumar, associate professor of general libraries.

An opening reception will be held at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 18, with remarks provided by Dr. Larry Curtis, Distinguished University Professor of Physics and Astronomy. Curtis plans to talk about the importance of remaining active through study, as well as encouraging UT faculty and staff to continue to teach while doing research.

The free, public exhibit is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For more information, contact Kumar at 419.530.4485.

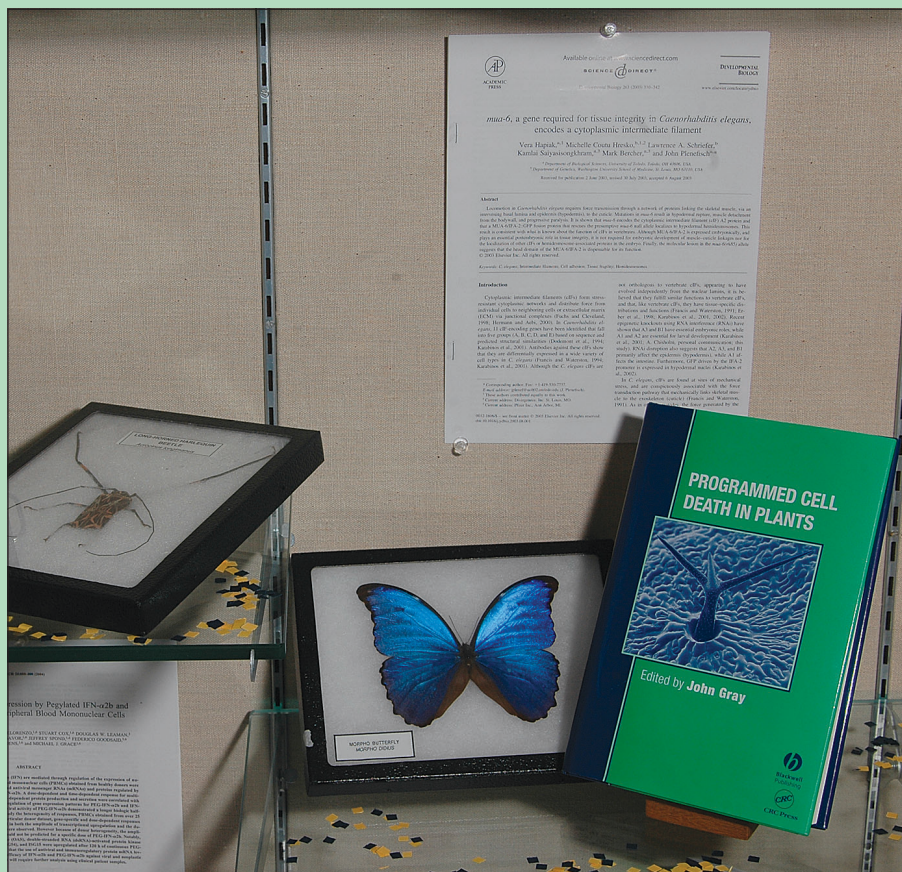

Photo by Bill Hartough
Programmed Cell Death in Plants, edited by Dr. John Gray, associate professor of biological sciences, is one of many books featured in the UT Authors and Artists Exhibit.

Saturday, Nov. 20

Community Organizing Event
One-day training will focus on community organizing for social justice. Continuing education units are available through the UT social work department. Lagrange Development Corp., 3015 Lagrange St. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. $10. Register: 419.255.8406.

Planetarium Program

"Journey Through the Solar System."
Ritter Planetarium. 1 p.m. $4 for adults; $3 for seniors and children ages 4-12; free for children 3 and younger. Info: 419.530.4037.

Diya: The Festival of Lights

Enjoy Indian food and cultural events. Sponsor: Indian Students Cultural Organization. Student Union Auditorium. 6:30 p.m. $15 for non-members; $6 for ISCO members. Info: 419.320.3599.

Senior Recital

Aaron Tobe, voice. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

Sunday, Nov. 21

Rocket Marching Band Concert
Directed by Jason Stumbo, UT visiting assistant professor of music. Savage Hall. 3 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

Senior Recital

Michelle Stephens, voice. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 3 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

Community Chorus Concert

Directed by Dr. Stephen Hodge, UT professor of music. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

Monday, Nov. 22

HIV Testing
Free, anonymous testing. Student Medical Center. 1-4 p.m. Info: 419.530.3464.

Collegium Musicum Concert

Directed by Dr. Alice Petersen, UT lecturer of music. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

continued on page 3

UT Calendar — Nov 17-30

Wednesday, Nov. 17

University Women's Commission Holiday Bazaar and Scholarship Fund-Raiser

Featuring craft vendors and silent auction gift baskets. Student Union Ingman Room. 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.321.5158.

International Education Week

Events continue. For details, go to <http://www.student-services.utoledo.edu/international/Intl%20Education%20Week/IEW2004.htm>.

"Techno-Bits"

"Putting Together a Home Wireless Network." Sponsor: Center for Teaching and Learning. Carlson Library Room 1005A. 3 p.m. Info: 419.530.2075.

UT Jazz Master Series

Featuring the David Liebman Group. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

"Vagina Monologues" Meeting

Volunteers and actors needed. Student Union South Lounge. 9 p.m. Info: 419.530.2674.

Thursday, Nov. 18

International Education Week

Events continue. For details, go to <http://www.student-services.utoledo.edu/international/Intl%20Education%20Week/IEW2004.htm>.

Center for Teaching and Learning Luncheon Seminar

"Dealing With 'Techno-Stress.'" Speaker: Dr. Bernie Bopp, UT Center for Teaching and Learning. Student Union Room 2592. Noon. RSVP: 419.530.2075.

Women's Brown-Bag Lecture

"Lies We Were Told About Women's History." Speaker: Dr. Jamie Barlowe, UT professor of women's and gender studies. Center for Women, Tucker Hall Room 180. 12:30 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.8570.

Brown-Bag Lecture

"Now What? More Election Decompression." Co-sponsors: College Democrats, UT women's and gender studies department and Catharine S. Eberly Center for Women. Student Union Room 2582. 12:30 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2233.

Physics and Astronomy Colloquium

"Massive Protostellar Outflows: Are They Different From Low Mass Outflows?" Speaker: Debra Shepherd, National Radio Astronomy Observatory. McMaster Hall Room 1005. 4 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2241.

Piano Recital

Featuring Dr. Michael Boyd, UT professor of music. Wildwood Manor, 5100 W. Central Ave. 7:30 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

German Film Presentation

"The Comedian Harmonists." Sponsor: UT German Club. Bowman-Oddy Laboratories Room 1059. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2649.

Percussion Ensemble Concert

Directed by Dr. Michael Waldrop, UT assistant professor of music. Center for Performing Arts Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2448.

Friday, Nov. 19

International Education Week

Events continue. For details, go to <http://www.student-services.utoledo.edu/international/Intl%20Education%20Week/IEW2004.htm>.

Honor's Brown-Bag Lecture

"My International Youth Leadership Conference Experience." Speaker: Haley McCoy, UT sophomore, College of Arts and Sciences. Faculty mentor: Dr. Mark Denham, UT associate professor of political science. Sullivan Hall Room 103. Noon. Free, public. Info: 419.530.6030.

"Techno-Bits"

"Putting Together a Home Wireless Network." Sponsor: Center for Teaching and Learning. Carlson Library Room 1005A. 2 p.m. Info: 419.530.2075.

Biological Sciences Lecture

"Esmolol Stat (The Birth of Soft Drug Technology) and Beyond." Speaker:

Dr. Paul Erhardt, UT professor of medicinal and biological chemistry. Wolfe Hall Room 3246. 3:30 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.1966.

Women's Basketball

UT vs. Cincinnati. Savage Hall. 7 p.m. $9 for general admission; $4.50 for children 12 and younger; free for UT students with I.D. Info: 419.530.4653.

Planetarium Program

"Holiday Lights." Ritter Planetarium. 7:30 p.m. Observing at Brooks Observatory follows program, weather permitting. $4 for adults; $3 for seniors and children ages 4-12; free for children 3 and younger. Info: 419.530.4037.

Art

"Focus"

The best artwork by high school students from northwest Ohio and southeast Michigan is on display. Center for the Visual Arts Gallery. Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m.-10 p.m.; Sunday, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Through Nov. 28. Reception and awards Sunday, Nov. 28, noon-2 p.m. Free, public. Info: 419.530.8300.

Native-American Art Exhibit

Works by Brent Learned, Native-American artist of the Cheyenne and Arapaho tribes of Oklahoma, are on display in honor of Native-American History Month. Multicultural Student Center, Student Union Room 2500. Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Through Nov. 30. Free, public. Info: 419.530.2261.

"Three by Five"

Five local women artists — Debra Buchanan, Margie Carlile, Mary Jane Erard, Carol James Lufcombe and Joan Rigal — each contribute three works for this exhibition. Catharine S. Eberly Center for Women, Tucker Hall Room 168. Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Through Dec. 10. Info: 419.530.8570.

"Sculptures and Ceramics"

Works by Tom Lingeman, UT professor of art, and Karen Roderick-Lingeman, UT lecturer of art, are on display. Maumee Country Day School Wolfe Gallery, 1715 South Reynolds Road. Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Through Dec. 17. Free, public. Info: 419.381.1313.