Teachers
Study in South Africa and Lesotho

A Curriculum Development Project
Integrating Visual Arts and Social Sciences

U. S. Department of Education
Fulbright-Hays Group Project
June 22 - August 2, 2011

- Learn about the cultures and history of the Basotho people of southern Africa
- Participate in seminars with African professors, artists, politicians, civil servants and community activists
- Work with southern African students and teachers to get a better understanding of the educational system
- Work cooperatively to create an integrated set of lessons to be published
- Embellish your credentials with a Fulbright-Hays award, graduate credit and/or CEUs
- Visit non-malarial and low risk areas in southern Africa and enjoy recreational activities like game viewing and hiking
- Cost to participants is only $895 for over five weeks abroad (includes all lodging, meals and transportation)

For information about program requirements, itinerary, leaders, and the application form visit www.utoledo.edu/as/ids/global/Africanindex.html

Or Contact:
Professor Mark E. Denham
University of Toledo
(419) 530-4062
Mark.Denham@UToledo.edu

Application deadline extended to January 20, 2011