College of Visual & Performing Arts

Events

2012/2013
Greetings!

It is with excitement and enthusiasm that we kick off the 2012 – 2013 Season in the University of Toledo College of Visual and Performing Arts! We are a tremendously vibrant and active College—presenting many concerts, plays, films, art exhibits and other special events throughout the year.

Collaboration and engagement are foci for the College and this fall, the Department of Art has invited the artist collective M12 to campus. The M12 group creates interdisciplinary site-based art works, research projects, and education and outreach programs. They will be working with art students to develop a unique body of work titled, “Reclaim and Collaborate.” We hope you will join us for the opening reception for this unique project on September 21.

The Department of Music is featuring four amazing guest artists in concert with the Dorothy Mackenzie Price Piano Series. Each artist will present a concert recital and conduct a master class for students. In the spring, be sure to join us for the annual Spring Festival of New Music. The Festival presents a variety of new music from across a broad spectrum of genres. The public is invited and welcome to attend these free music events.

The UT Department of Theatre and Film is proud to welcome Jessica Bonenfant, Creative Director of Brooklyn, NY based Lola Lola Dance Theatre, as the guest director of Jean Cocteau’s “Orpheus.” In the spring, be sure to see the debut of the original play “Ghost Light.” Under the direction of Assistant Professor of Theatre, Edmund Lingan, UT theatre and film students will serve as script writers and set and costume designers for the premiere multimedia production.

In addition to these offerings, the College will be hosting Cabaret Gourmet, April 6 at the Toledo Club. Keep an eye out for more details on this tasty and entertaining evening. For more information on Cabaret Gourmet and other updates, check us out online at utoledo.edu/cvpa.

Spend some time with the 2012 – 2013 Events Guide, pick your favorites and join us!

Debra A. Davis
Dean of The College of Visual and Performing Arts
Daniel Farnum will present photographic works that document Michigan’s urban farms. Farnum’s portraits of participants in this new industry include hipsters, neighborhood teenagers, unemployed factory workers and restaurant owners. These portraits address the eclectic nature of community and optimistic passion for sustainable living.

M12 is an artist collective that creates interdisciplinary site-based artworks, research projects, and education/outreach projects. M12 will create a project connecting rural sensibilities with midwest urbanism, working in collaboration with University of Toledo students, faculty and our community.
