Nursing Education Certificate Program
For Registered Nurses

The knowledge and application of the principles of teaching and learning, program development, assessment, and the evaluation of learners is paramount for the role of the nurse as educator. All classes are conducted online.

The Nursing Education Certificate Program at The University of Toledo is designed to provide an opportunity for current and potential nurse educators in academic and healthcare settings to develop and refine the practice of teaching. Graduates of the program receive a certificate acknowledging successful completion of advanced preparation. This certificate depicts a commitment to the professional responsibility as an educator in a variety of healthcare settings.

The University of Toledo (UT) College of Nursing

The UT College of Nursing is located on the UT Health Science Campus in a residential area of south Toledo. It is considered by many to be one of the most technologically advanced campuses in the nation.

The College of Nursing, established in 1971, is a major provider of undergraduate and graduate nursing education in northwest Ohio.

The UT College of Nursing faculty, facilities and resources provide excellent opportunities for clinical nursing experiences, research, professional development and continuing nursing education.
