

The University of Toledo - Main Campus Policy

Article III-2-IV

Targeted Research Areas

The University acknowledges the value to the institution in having nationally- and internationally-recognized research programs. The University also recognizes that creating and sustaining programs of this stature often require substantial investments. Limitations in resources and other pressures, however, require the University to make its major investments in relatively few and targeted research areas, as identified in its planning documents.
