

Top Reasons to Study Abroad with USAC

- You earn U.S. university credit and/or credits which are transferable to your home university.
- USAC is a consortium of U.S. universities: non-profit, we know how university processes work and how to work with them, we are "them".
- USAC programs and offices are located on overseas university campuses.
- USAC is a one-stop shop offering you housing, academics, field trips, internships, field study courses and more; from the point you apply, your arrival and stay, to your transcript upon return.
- USAC provides opportunities to get involved and interact with locals including students from your host country.
- USAC offers diversity in and out of the classroom; alumni hail from more than 700 universities worldwide; sitting in class and traveling with students from all over the U.S. as well as countries like Australia, Sweden, Spain, Germany, China, Japan, New Zealand and more.
- USAC Resident Directors are dedicated exclusively to you and conduct your orientation, assist with housing and provide support in your adjusting to a new culture.
- USAC has been providing study abroad programs for more than two decades with continuously high recommendation rates.
- USAC offers entry level (no previous language experience) through advanced level language courses.
- USAC program lengths range from summer (4-6 weeks), semester and yearlong; discounts are available for returning students.
- USAC programs are affordable.
- USAC awarded $250,000 in scholarships last year.
- You can use your financial aid and other scholarships toward USAC programs.

The University Studies Abroad Consortium (known as USAC), is a consortium of 33 US universities and has been providing quality study abroad programs for over 25 years. USAC currently offers programs in 25 countries at 39 programs sites with a 93% recommendation rate. Central Office and consortium staff works closely with the on-site Resident Directors and Program Coordinators to ensure that students receive personalized care and attention. With annual enrollment of about 2,500, USAC students represent more than 700 US and foreign universities and 22 countries.

Office of Study Abroad

www.utoledo.edu/utlc/studyabroad

419.530.8550