

UT COBI students' stock picks recognized by Forbes

On October 14th and 15th, Michigan Interactive Investments (MII) hosted its fourth annual Undergraduate Investment Conference at the Ross School of Business at the University of Michigan. The conference this year featured 16 schools from across the country competing for a grand prize of $3,000. Competing schools include Carnegie Mellon, University of California-Berkeley, Emory, and William & Mary.

Derrick Jones and Xu Zhang represented The University of Toledo College of Business and Innovation. Although the UT COBI team did not make it to the final round of the competition, their selections attracted the attention of Kai Petainen, a contributor for Forbes, who featured them in an article on Forbes.com. Check it out here:

<http://www.forbes.com/sites/kaipetainen/2011/10/20/miami-toledo-and-stern-lead-student-stock-pitches/3/>

“Congratulations to our COBI students for this wonderful recognition of their achievements and the positive reflection it shines on the Neff Department of Finance,” noted COBI Dean Thomas Gutteridge. “The John B. and Lillian E. Neff Trading Room in the Savage & Associates Complex for Business Learning and Engagement is a state-of-the-art facility that facilitates the talents of our faculty and students, both in competitions between universities such as this one and in preparing for a lifetime of business success. Kudos to all involved.”