From Submitter: "The course was successful when I taught it as a special topic. Students were interested in the topic and I am introducing it to the course catalog." This course reflects a need to offer a class that gives students the opportunity to explore issues of race as they intersect with British Literature before 1850, which is quite important as many of these concepts have continuing legacy in literature and the larger world today. This course is also meant to pair with ENGL 4560 and ENGL
