Classroom Procedures and Expectations

Participation: Graduate learning is based on class participation where one articulates one's understanding about new ideas and concepts. Participation requires thoughtful reflection. This course offers opportunities to express yourself and to expand the depth and breadth of that understanding based on consideration of the writings of the scholars in the discipline. Classmates benefit from hearing your perspective whether they agree or not. Acceptance or rejection of those ideas requires critical thinking on your part and integrating that understanding into a broader perception of nursing and your practice world. You are expected to take the risk to initiate verbalizing your understandings, to respect peers and to help them clarify their ideas. Because class discussions support your learning, you are expected to attend and share in the discussions at all classes. Missing more than one class will seriously compromise your learning and your satisfactory completion of this expectation. If your opinion differs from those expressed in the assigned articles, try to identify how your opinion developed and why it may not agree with these scholars. In other words, it is ok to disagree with these writers, but you need to thoughtfully consider why nursing scholars are proposing a contrasting perspective. If you agree, what "fits" for you and why?

Discussion Grading Criteria: Agreeing and disagreeing do not mean just voicing one’s opinion. The focus of the discussions should remain on the ideas posed in the readings. Agreeing and disagreeing mean making scholarly arguments from the literature that may support your own ideas. Faculty expects you to support your ideas from the readings or similar scholarly writing about the topic in nursing literature. Always cite your source(s).
Respect for Each Other and Faculty: Some of the class discussions will challenge personal values. Each person has the right and responsibility to examine his or her own thinking in the context of the readings and discussion. Faculty expects each to verbalize those insights without risk of censure from others in the class. Conflicting ideas are expected and respected. Responding to another’s different perspective in constructive ways is part of using empathy and practicing how to respond to patients whose views and choices may differ from yours. Practice what we advocate! Lack of respect for differences of values and expression will not be tolerated. Please feel free to disagree with each other, gently and respectfully.

Late Assignments: Late papers and presentations will receive a 5% point deduction for the first day late and deductions for each day that follows without receipt of the paper. Deductions may be modified if a student negotiates for a changed deadline with faculty in advance. However, all late assignments will receive a grade deduction.

Academic accommodations: Academic accommodations may not be made by faculty unless documented testing indicates a need officially. Please pursue your rights as needed to assure your success!

Any student who feels s/he may qualify for academic accommodations in this course based on the impact of a documented disability or who may need assistance in the event of an emergency, should contact the Academic Enrichment Center (AEC) to discuss your specific need(s). If you have already met with the AEC staff and have a faculty memo, please make an appointment to meet with me as soon as possible. AEC staff can be reached at 419-383-4274, AcademicEnrichmentCenter@utoledo.edu, or go to the website at http://www.utoledo.edu/med/depts/aec/.

Official Communication will occur through the Blackboard course site for e-mail communication and posting of papers. Faculty will retrieve and return papers online as well.
