

University of Toledo College of Law
Certificate of Concentration Student Learning Outcomes

Certificate of Concentration in Criminal Law

- A. Demonstrate understanding of substantive and procedural criminal law.
- B. Employ legal analysis, reasoning, and problem-solving relevant to the criminal justice system.
- C. Engage in legal research relevant to criminal law.
- D. Engage with legal concepts on a policy level and understand the place of law within society and the criminal justice system.

Certificate of Concentration in Environmental Law

- A. Demonstrate understanding of substantive and procedural environmental law.
- B. Employ legal analysis, reasoning, and problem-solving relevant to environmental law issues facing private, governmental, and public interest clients.
- C. Demonstrate skills important to the practice of environmental law.
- D. Engage with legal concepts on a policy level and understand the place of law within society.

Certificate of Concentration in Intellectual Property Law

- A. Demonstrate understanding of substantive and procedural intellectual property law.
- B. Employ legal analysis, reasoning, and problem-solving relevant to intellectual property law matters.
- C. Demonstrate skills important to the practice of intellectual property law.
- D. Engage with legal concepts on a policy level and understand the place of intellectual property law within society.

Certificate of Concentration in International Law

- A. Demonstrate understanding of substantive international law.
- B. Employ legal analysis, reasoning, and problem-solving relevant to international law.
- C. Engage in legal research on international law topics.
- D. Engage with legal concepts on a policy level and understand the place of international law within society.

Certificate of Concentration in Labor and Employment Law

- A. Demonstrate understanding of substantive and procedural labor and employment law.
- B. Employ legal analysis, reasoning, and problem-solving relevant to labor and employment law.
- C. Demonstrate skills important to the practice of labor and employment law.
- D. Engage with legal concepts on a policy level and understand the place of labor and employment law within society.