Letters to Louis Untermeyer. The first letter is a response to an anthology Untermeyer worked on. The second letter, 1 May 1936, contains criticisms of the poetry society. In the next note, July 12, 1942, Gregory talks about receiving the Loines award and observing the war industries of Milwaukee. The letter of December 28, 1949 has Gregory telling Untermeyer how he admires his new book on Whitman. The March 30, 1964 note asks Untermeyer's help in nominating his wife, Marya, for a poetry award. The postcard has no date and praises Untermeyer's talk on Robert Frost. In the February 1, 1971 letter, Gregory tells Untermeyer about his editor and thanks him for his praise of his book. The February 25, 1971 letter agrees to help Untermeyer sponsor a poet named Stanley. The last two letters are undated. The first one discusses Gregory's new anthology The Silver Swan. The second discusses Gregory's career as an author and asks Untermeyer's advice on helping Gregory's wife publish her poetry, March 28, 1936; May 1, 1936; July 12, 1942; December 28, 1949; March 30, 1964; n.d.; January 13, 1966; February 1, 1971; February 25, 1941; n.d.	box 2	folder MSS-040s
