

Contents

Preface to the English Edition — BÉLA KÖPECSI.....	XIII
--	------

PART ONE

TRANSYLVANIA IN PREHISTORIC AND ANCIENT TIMES.....	1
--	---

I. Prehistory and Antiquity.....	3
----------------------------------	---

1. The Prehistory of Dacia — GÁBOR VÉKONY.....	3
--	---

From the Beginnings to the End of the Stone Age 3 The Copper Age 7 The Bronze Age 10 The Iron Age and the First Historical Nations 13

2. The Dacian Kingdom — ANDRÁS MÓCSY and GÁBOR VÉKONY.....	17
--	----

The Dacian People 17 The Reign of Burebista 18 The Transition Period 21 The Kingdom of Decebal 24

3. The Roman Province of Dacia — ENDRE TÓTH.....	28
--	----

Conquest and Organization of the Province 28 Organization and Administration 34 Economy and Trade 36 The Long War and Recovery in the Severan Age 38 Settlement and Urbanization 41 The Population: Dacians and Settlers 44 Collapse and Evacuation 52 The Fate of the Provincial Population after Evacuation 56

II. From Dacia to Transylvania. The Period of the Great Migrations (271–895) — ISTVÁN BÓNA.....	62
---	----

1. The “Men of the Forest”. The Goths in Transylvania (271–380).....	62
--	----

The Decline of Dacia 62 The Carpic Interlude 65 The Goths in Transylvania 66 Collapse 75 The Gepids before the Hunnish Conquest (269–424) 76

2. The Huns (376/424–455).....	77
--------------------------------	----

3. The Gepid Kingdom (455-567)	79
Gepid Kings in Transylvania 84 The Gepids at the Time of the Merovingian Civilization 85
4. The Avar Period (567-827)	90
5. The Slavs up to the Hungarian Conquest (600-895)	97
The People of the Szilágynagyfalu Kurgans 101
6. Southern Transylvania under Bulgar Rule (827-895)	102

PART TWO

TRANSYLVANIA IN THE MEDIAEVAL HUNGARIAN KINGDOM

I. The Hungarian-Slav Period (895-1172) — ISTVÁN BÓNA	109
1. The Hungarian Conquest	110
2. Transylvania and the Eastern Great Hungarian Plain in the Century Following the Hungarian Conquest (895-1003) 114 The Byzantine Orientation and its Supporters 120 The Conquering Hungarians in Transylvania 129
3. Transylvania in the Early Kingdom of Hungary (1003-1172)	138
The Eastern Part of the Great Hungarian Plain up to the Last Third of the Twelfth Century 141 Transylvania after 1003 until the Last Quarter of the Twelfth Century 144 Hungarians and Slavs 149 Politics in the Twelfth Century 152 Economy and Population 154 Archaeological Evi- dence from the Times of the Establishment of the State 158 The Emergence of Castles 161 The Early Roman Catholic Church 168 Early Arpadian Villages, Houses and Other Architectural Monuments 169 The First Frontier Guard Deployments to the East 172 Conclusions Drawn from the Study of Hungarian and Slavic Settlements up to the Great Changes of the Late Twelfth Century 174
II. The Emergence of the Estates (1172-1526) — LÁSZLÓ MAKKAJ	178
1. The Three Peoples of Transylvania (1172-1241)	178
The Formation of the Székely and Saxon Settlements 178 The Peregrine Romanian Homeland 183 Romanians in Transylvania and Cumania until the Mongol Invasion 189 The Mongol Invasion and its Consequences 194 Romanian Kenézes and Voivodes 195
2. Nobles and Serfs in Transylvania (1241-1360)	199
The Disintegration of the Royal Counties 199 Anarchy and Consolidation 203 The Noble Counties and the

Nobility 206 Székelys and Saxons among the Nobility 208
Ecclesiastical Organization and Education 212 Romanian
Landowners and Serfs within, and beyond the Carpathians 214

3. The Three Nations of Transylvania (1360-1526)	221
The Transylvanian Concept of Nation 221 Turkish Threat and Peasant War 223 The Hunyadis 226 The Towns and the Saxon Autonomy 231 The Székely Fight for Freedom and György Székely's Peasant War 235 Gothic and Ren- aissance Culture in Transylvania 239

PART THREE

THE PRINCIPALITY OF TRANSYLVANIA

I. The Emergence of the Principality and its First Crises (1526-1606) — GÁBOR BARTA	247
1. From the Kingdom of Hungary to the Principality of Transylvania	247
Transylvania and the Disintegration of the Mediaeval Hungarian State 247 Towards the Formation of the Transylvanian State 251 Collapse and Revival 255
2. Economy, Society and Culture in the New State	264
The New State 264 The Transylvanian State and the Outside World in the Second Half of the Sixteenth Century 271 Saxon and Hungarian Towns 274 The Serfs 278 The Romanians 281 The Decline of the Székely Community 282 Power and those Who Held it 285 Culture and Reformation, Religious Tolerance 287
3. Transylvania in the Fifteen Years' War	293
István Bocskai's Uprising and the Resurrection of the Transylvanian State 297
II. The Golden Age of the Principality (1606-1660) — KATALIN PÉTER	301
1. The Antecedents	301
Population 301 The Free Election of a Prince and Gábor Báthory's Coup 303 In War and in Peace 306 The Prince without the Support of his People 307
2. The Reign of Gábor Bethlen	309
The Porte Regains its Power 309 Gábor Bethlen Stops the War 311 The Professional Prince 313 Gábor Bethlen and his Country 315 Outdated Methods of Taxation and Modern Economic Policy 317
3. Transylvania in the International Coalition against the House of Habsburg	318

Hungary and the Thirty Years' War 318	Gábor Bethlen as Prince of Hungary 319	A King Is Elected but Not Crowned 321	Bethlen Loses the Kingdom of Hungary 321	The Struggle for Hungary and Gábor Bethlen's Final Plans 322	The Contest for the Kingdom and Transylvania 324
4. A Prince under the Force of Circumstances	325
Political Crisis and the Triumph of György Rákóczi I 325	Good External Relations and Internal Conflicts. Economic Policy 326	A Victory over the Turks 329	War with the Habsburg, and Separate Peace 330	The Allies' Mutual Indifference and Rákóczi's Final Plans 331
5. Transylvanian Society under an Absolute Rule	332
The Serfs 333	The Lords 333	The Székelys 335	The Saxons 336	The Romanians 338	Reconstruction 339
The Value of Work 342
6. Culture and Education	344
The Schools 344	The Intellectuals 345	Erudition 348	An Open-Minded Society 351
7. The Miscarriage of Great Hopes	352
Connections with the Romanian Voivodates 352	The Hopes of Politicians in the Kingdom 353	The Polish Campaign and the Beginning of Transylvania's Decline 355	Turkish War in Transylvania 356
III. The End of Turkish Rule in Transylvania and the Reunification of Hungary (1660–1711) — ÁGNES R. VÁRKONYI	359
1. Changes in Politics	359
Prince Mihály Apafi and the Turkish Wars of 1660–1667 359	Apafi's Balancing Act and the Transylvanian–French Alliance 363	Secret Membership in the Holy League 367	Reunion with the Kingdom of Hungary within the Habsburg System 370	Ferenc Rákóczi II, Prince of Transylvania 374
2. Economy and Society	382
Population and the National Economy 382	Production and Governmental Economic Policy 385	Social Mobility in a Society of Estates 396
3. The Varieties of Culture	400
Cultural Policy, the Intellectuals, and the Vernacular 400	Schools, Presses, and Science 403	Material Culture and Mentality 406	Art and Literature 408

PART FOUR	TRANSYLVANIA UNDER THE HABSBURG EMPIRE		413
I. The Long Eighteenth Century (1711–1830) — ZSOLT TRÓCSÁNYI and AMBRUS MISKOLCZY	415
1. The New Order	415
Population and Society 417	The Counter-Reformation and its Consequences 423	Romanian Religions and National Movements 426	Feudal Constitutionalism and the Viennese Central Government 429
2. From the Enlightenment to Liberalism	435
Enlightenment and National Cultures 435	The First Decades of Enlightened Absolutism 440	The Horea–Cloșca Revolt 442	Administrative Reforms 445
Feudal Reaction and Reform 448	Culture and Bureaucracy 454
II. The Reform Era (1830–1848) — AMBRUS MISKOLCZY	459
Hungarian Liberalism and the Feudal Constitution 460	The Hungarian Liberals' Attitude toward the Nationalities 464	Attempts at Social Reform 467	The Revival of the Romanian National Movement 471
Romanian Political Aspirations 475	The Saxons' Awakening to their German Identity 478	The Conservative Counter-Offensive 483
III. Revolution and the War of Independence (1848–1849) — AMBRUS MISKOLCZY	486
Transylvanian Society in the "Springtime of the Nations" 486	The Bourgeois Revolution in Transylvania 494	Counter-Revolution and Civil War 501	Revolutionary Consolidation and its Contradictions 513
Hungarian–Romanian Relations in the Spring and Summer of 1849 517	The Last Days of the War of Independence in Transylvania 522
PART FIVE	FROM THE EMPIRE TO CIVIC HUNGARY — ZOLTÁN SZÁSZ
I. The Era of Neo-Absolutism (1849–1867)	527
1. The Establishment of Despotic Rule	527
Reprisals and Consolidation 527	The Absolutist System 529
2. Political Life during the Absolutist Period	531
The Abolition of Saxon Autonomy 531	The Repression of Romanian National Aspirations 532	Hungarian Resistance 533	The Hungarian Exiles and War in Italy 535
The New

Terms of the Emancipation of Serfs and the Compensation for the Landlords 536 The Impact of the Crimean War 538

3. Autocracy in Decline 539
 The Italian War and the Actions of the Hungarian Exiles 539 The Conservative Federalist Experiment: The October Diploma 541 The Liberal Centralization of the Empire 543 The Struggle for Local Power 545 The Plan for a Danubian Confederation 547 The Provisorium and the Nagyszeben Diet 548 The Termination of the Provisional Government, and the Kolozsvár Diet 552

II. Population and Economy in the Age of Capitalism 555

1. Population 555
 Population Growth and Mobility 555 The Ethnic and Denominational Composition of the Population 559

2. Economy 564
 The Transition to Capitalism 564 The Establishment of a Communication Network 567 The Economic Policy of the State 568 Agriculture in Transition 573 The Modernization of Industry and Mining 578

3. Cultural Life and the Ethnic Communities 583
 The Various Societies and their Programmes 584 Education 587 The Changing World of Sciences 591 Literature and the Arts 593

III. Political Life and the Nationality Issue in the Age of Dualism (1867-1918) 599

1. The Dualist System 599
 The Restoration of Constitutionalism and of the Union 599 Liberal Legislation and Patriarchal Power 600 The Attitude of the Hungarians 607

2. The Crisis of Accommodation in the Saxon and Romanian National Movements 610
 The Saxons' Position in the Dualist System 610 Romanian Politics: The Road to Passive Resistance 613 The Romanians of Transylvania and the Kingdom of Romania 616 The Memorandum Movement 618

3. New Tendencies at the Turn of the Century 623
 Changes in Government Policy at the Turn of the Century 623 Hopes for a Settlement Fade. Renewed Romanian Activity 625 The Coalition Period and Vienna's Last Experiment: The Workshop of Francis Ferdinand 628 The Last Experiment of Budapest: István Tisza's Negotiations with the Romanian National Party 631

4. The First World War 636
 The First Years of the War 636 Romania's Attempt to Occupy Transylvania 639 The Measures Following the Fighting 641

IV. Revolutions and National Movements after the Collapse of the Monarchy (1918-1919) 643
 The Michaelmas Daisy Revolution 643 The Emergence of the Romanian Bourgeoisie's Power Base 647 The Romanian National Assembly at Gyulafehérvár 650 The End of Hungarian Rule in Transylvania 652 The Socialist Alternative: The Republic of Councils 656 Counter-Revolution and the Treaty of Trianon 659

PART SIX
 TRANSYLVANIA SINCE 1918 — BÉLA KÓPECZI 663

Internal Forces 665 Internal Situation of the New Romania 666 Economic Circumstances 669 Romanians in Predominant Situation 670 Sufferings of the Hungarians 673 German Seeking Ways 681 The Second World War and the Divided Transylvania 683 Northern Transylvania 686 Southern Transylvania 688 The Extermination of the Jewish Population 689 Fight against Fascism 690 Once More in Romania 691

List of Abbreviations 693

Bibliography 698

List of Illustrations 734

Chronology of the History of Transylvania — KLÁRA HEGYI and ISTVÁN GYÖRGY TÓTH 745

Index — ISTVÁN SOÓS 763