

STUDENT RESOURCE XIV: Real world experience

In communities with present or persistent land use challenges, assume the roles of different community stakeholders to investigate the use of green space in the neighborhood in regards a specific challenge. Consult historical maps to understand past use, the current challenge, and assess the proposed changes in use, and/or make proposals for the future.

Who do you think would be involved in or interested in a project such as this? List the main people you think would be involved and research each one's role. For example:

1. Mayor: The Mayor has the power to approve or veto the project, and is the person finally responsible for its planning and implementation. The Mayor would be interested in making sure that the residents' views are taken into consideration because s/he represents all of them.
